

Cows were for milk and for food, but a faithfully producing animal often became almost a part of the family. Such was "Star," the friend of Alma Long Gresham, at their farm near Arabia Mountain. (1949)