MRS. GRAYSON TO REPAIR SHIP, THEN TRY AGAIN

Dawn 450 Miles Out When Engine Threatens to Blow Up

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 24.—Notwithstanding three failures after starting a transatlantic flight Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson was determined Monday to make another attempt to get to Copenhagen, in the monoplane Dawn.

The time for the next attempt depends on favorable weather and the condition of the motor which practically failed during Sunday's flight after the machine had covered more than 450 miles of its outward trip.

Mrs. Grayson, who is in command of the expedition and has as aids, Brice Goldsborough, navigator, and Wilmor Stultz, pilot, was undaunted by the successive reverses and delays which have been their fate for nearly two months.

That no abandonment was contemplated until weather conditions make such action absolutely imperative was seen in the hastily telegraphed requests which recalled Kinkade and Igor Sikorsky, designer of The Dawn.

A broken exhaust valve which but for good fortune might have caused an explosion of the motor and sent the plane precipitately into the sea, was found Monday by T. Harold Kinkade, motor expert, in his investigation of the trouble which forced the Grayson plane to return Sunday after a five-hour flight toward Europe.

Kinkade and Sikorsky left New York after the Copenhagen bound machine apparently had at last got under way and were well on their way to their destination when news of the enforced return was received here.

The machine had nearly reached Sable Island off the tip of Nova Scotia when "suddenly the left side motor made a terrific noise and great quantities of smoke poured out," as Stultz described the difficulty.

The flyers feared it might blow up. Goldsborough jumped to the gasoline release lever and for the third time the plane was saved by the speedy release of a part of its load of fuel.

Twice before when the big ship seemed headed for the waves in take-offs here, it was righted by the quick acting release mechanism.

Freed of 200 gallons of gasoline, the plane rose rapidly and fears that had led to the sending of a hasty SOS message the making of tentative plans to land in the water alongside a nearby steamship were found to be premature.
