Fayette county; thence along the northern boundary of Fayette County to the starting point." <sup>33</sup>

The act creating Fulton County included the provision "that the County site of DeKalb County shall not be removed, or the public buildings transferred from the town of Decatur, the present County Site of said county, to any other place on account of laying out of said new county, but that the county site of said county, with the public buildings, be, and the same are hereby declared to be permanently and perpetually located at the town of Decatur, the present county site." The stipulation would become key to stopping an attempt to move the county seat from Decatur to Stone Mountain in 1896. <sup>34</sup>

Today's Dunwoody Baptist Church had its roots in the Providence Baptist Church, which was founded in 1853. The first preacher was the Rev. W. G. Aiken, and the first church was built on his land near the present site of the New Hope Cemetery on Chamblee Dunwoody Road. Providence had nine charter members in addition to the Rev. Aiken and his wife: W. M. Johnson, W. C. Johnston, Joseph B. Walker, Samuel Johnson, Elizabeth Johnson, Nancy Johnston, Mary Walker, Harriet Densmore and Mary Reeves. After the Civil War, the church reorganized in a brush arbor in Sandy Springs; a small building was constructed in 1878. In 1886, Providence gave 11 of its members "letters of authority" to start Dunwoody Baptist Church. Among Dunwoody's charter members were Bunyan Cheek and his sisters, Myra Cheek and Lizzie Cheek Newhard. Myra later married Will Martin, and the couple gave land on Chamblee Dunwoody Road in 1903 for a Dunwoody Baptist Church building. <sup>35</sup>

Stone Mountain Methodist Church was organized in 1854. The church's first building was constructed in 1870, and torn down in 1909, with the lumber used to build a parsonage. The present granite building was dedicated in 1926. <sup>36</sup>

A small Baptist church that was destined to become the largest congregation in DeKalb County was constituted on August 5, 1854. The first meeting of Rehoboth Baptist Church was held in the J. B. Johns' schoolhouse, behind the church's current location on Lawrenceville Highway.

John Bolen Johns came to DeKalb from Wilkes County, Ga. in 1823, and began a settlement midway between Decatur and now Tucker. The community originally was called Pea Ridge.

At that first meeting, the Rev. S. B. Churchhill preached and organized a Presbytery composed of the Revs. Samuel Bryant, William H. Roberts and James H. Weaver. Charter members of Rehoboth were Ezekiel Reeves, John Cooper, Zephenia Estes, John Bagwell, Green Woodson, John B. Johns, Isaac Towers, Mary Reeves, Amanda Cooper, Emeline Bagwell, Elizabeth Bagwell and Temperance Towers.

Within one month of organizing, the church had conducted 21 baptisms, including two slaves: Ed, the slave of S. P. Cash; and Samuel, the slave of S. Cochran. Betsy, the slave of S. P. Wright, joined the church by letter. By the end of August, church membership numbered 36.

On October 21, 1854, church trustees John Bagwell, Joe Britt, S. Burdette and Ezekiel Reeves contracted with their host, J. B. Johns, to construct a church building. Johns also was a trustee. The original contract still is owned by the church. It calls for the building to be 40 feet long and 30 feet wide, with four "batten doors," each six and one-half feet high and three and one-half feet broad, 12 side windows and an additional window behind the pulpit. The cost was set at $119. The contract

Dear Sirs:

About a year ago, I was contacted by Stephen Thompson about doing some renovation work at Dunwoody New Hope Cemetery. The cemetery had faced many years of neglect and although the grounds had recently been cleaned, much additional work was necessary in order to return the cemetery to a proper state of repair. Stephen and I discussed which jobs needed to be done, and he stated that he would clean the tombstones and repair the driveway through the cemetery.

I know that cleaning the tombstones was a painstaking task, but many of the stones that could not be read, some of which date back almost 100 years, are now legible and attractive once again. The repair of the driveway required spreading many tons of gravel by hand, which Stephen accomplished only after many hours of work. Visitors will now have an easier drive through the cemetery and the gravesites are less likely to be damaged now that the path of the driveway is more clearly defined. In addition, Stephen saw the need for a sign at the cemetery. We had never had a sign before and the one he chose reflected good taste and appropriateness.

Although Stephen is still a young man, he has proven to us his determination and sense of responsibility. In achieving the goals he had set, he actually performed more than that which was required. He took the responsibility of finding the best price on the gravel and he arranged for the delivery. He also solicited funds from the Kiwanis Club to pay for the sign.

The results of his labors will be seen and appreciated for a long time. We applaud his efforts and commend him for the fine job he has done.

Sincerely,
