THE HONORABLE ELIZABETH WILSON
History-Maker Award Program 2006

Recording opens with a shot of the upper exterior of Historic DeKalb Courthouse, followed by several still images, including a stacks of books on African-American history, gardening, quilting, civil rights, and other books on subjects of interest to Elizabeth Wilson. The caption “The DeKalb History Center presents the 2006 DeKalb History Maker Award” (white letters on a black background) appears, followed by a photograph of Elizabeth Wilson with the caption “The Honorable Elizabeth Wilson” beneath. The photograph disappears, and the camera pans around the reception room upstairs in the Historic DeKalb Courthouse, first as the room has been prepared to welcome guests who have not yet arrived and later after people have gathered to honor Ms. Wilson. Decatur Mayor Bill Floyd takes the podium and addresses the audience.

MR. FLOYD: It’s a very special day. Most of you know I don’t have children. But I have a nephew who’s in business with me, and today at 12:18 his wife gave birth to their first child. So I was at Piedmont Hospital from 9:00 last night till about an hour and a half ago. So this is a special day. It’s Adeline Callahan Hefner. So thank you. [Audience applause] We are very proud. But it’s a special day; and it is my pleasure, on behalf of the people of Decatur and also on behalf of my fellow commissioners, of whom are here today, and I’d be remiss if I didn’t mention them—Jim Baskett, who is our mayor pro tem--Jim and I actually have served together with Elizabeth [Wilson] on the commission together. But Keisha Cunningham, Fred Boykin, and Mary Alice Kemp are all here today representing the city, so it’s— [Audience applause]

And as Sue Ellen [Owens Williams] said, it is appropriate, I think, today for us to welcome all of us here; but it’s appropriate for us to be in this historic building on this site, where a courthouse has stood since 1823 through slavery and the Civil War and Reconstruction and also in the ’50s and ’60s, where Elizabeth spent much of her time wandering around these streets and in this place and where much of the history that she made was made here. And it is appropriate that we do it in this building. Well, I want to welcome you here today. I am honored to be a part of this. It is a—we are honoring a history-maker, but it is a historic day. And I want to ask Judge Michael Hancock, who is one of the greatest singers I know, but also one of the greatest Superior Court judges I know, to come up and give the invocation and sing. [Judge Hancock comes up.] [To Judge Hancock] I think you’re going to sing for us. [Screen goes

34 blank for a few seconds. When audio and video return, Judge Hancock is seated with a guitar 35 next to the podium.]

36 JUDGE HANCOCK: Sue Ellen [Owens Williams] asked me a few minutes ago what was 37 I going to sing, and I told her I'd given much thought to it and thought that maybe I would do an 38 opening number by this group called Three Six Mafia [audience laughter]. But given the nature 39 of the occasion, and given the person who is receiving this honor, Elizabeth Wilson, who is a 40 hero, I thought that I would do this number. [Plays guitar and sings "The Wind Beneath My 41 Wings."] [Audience applause] Thank you. [Plays and sings "A Wonderful World."] [Audience
42 applause] [Judge Hancock leaves podium; Sue Ellen Owens Williams, Director of the DeKalb
43 History Center, comes up to podium and addresses the audience.]

44 MS. WILLIAMS: I'm glad it wasn't that "Mafia" thing. [Audience laughter] Thank you, 45 Michael. That was beautiful. Right before we get into the program, I want to ask you to check 46 those cell phones because we're videoing; and we don't want the sound of cell phones in the 47 background. So please check those. And also, just for Juanchella [Grooms, then community 48 liaison for Decatur Police Department; now Juanchella Grooms Francis], who has all of the 49 books that are on our tables as decoration on her library card [audience laughter], please don't 50 think that they are available for you to take home and read.

51 I want you to just take a minute and look around the room. Just take a minute and look 52 around the room at the people who are here. Not up front--look way back there. Look here, 53 look over here. Like, really turn your necks, you know, to look around the room. If you look 54 around the room, you really can't keep it straight ahead. I just want you to look around the 55 room. It is a wonderful world. [Reads lyrics of gospel hymn as an invocation of blessing.]

56 There's a sweet, sweet spirit in this place. And I know that it's the spirit of the Lord.
57 There are sweet expressions on each face. And I know that it's the presence of the 58 Lord.

59 Sweet Holy Spirit, sweet Heavenly dove, stay right here with us, filling us with your love.
60 And for each blessing we lift our hearts in praise. Without a doubt we'll know, 61 When leave this place, that we have been revived.

62
63 Thank you for the food, thank you for the people, thank you for the sweet, sweet spirit. Amen.

64 The DeKalb History Center, in 2000, devised, came up with the idea of the History 65 Maker Award. We were very specific in what we wanted it to be. We wanted it to be a 66 recognition for someone whose courageous actions had forever changed the face of a 67 community and its people. We were very clear that we did not want an award given to someone 68 that was an elected official—[To the audience] no offense to elected officials [Audience 69 laughter]. We didn't want it to be for someone necessarily that the whole world knew, and it was 70 not necessarily to be for someone whose actions at the time everybody thought were wonderful.

71 In fact, in most of the cases, as we've looked at the people, the actions at the time were not 72 necessarily received by all with great favor, with applause, with praise. In fact, they were 73 challenged openly. In 2000 we gave our History Maker Award to Jamie Mackay, a name that 74 some of you will know well and others of you will say, "Who is Jamie Mackay?" Jamie Mackay 75 had actions of courageous—much courage to change the face of the way DeKalb County
76 government operated and was very instrumental in the busing of DeKalb County schools 77 [students] and many other things where he met a lot of challenges. I'm very pleased to let you 78 know that tonight Jamie's wife—Jamie left us; we don't have his sweet spirit with us anymore, 79 except as we feel his presence—Sara Mackay is here tonight, along with Betty Asbury, Jamie 80 Mackay's sister. And Jamie received the first-ever History Maker Award. So Sara and Betty, if 81 you'll stand so we can give you recognition. [Camera pans audience; the ladies stand to 82 audience applause.]

83 We also determined that we wouldn't give this thing every year. We don't want it to 84 become something that is rote and that you have to sit around wondering who you're going to 85 give it to this year. We will decide at the proper time when the Spirit moves us to give an award.
86 So in 2004 the Spirit moved us again, and we gave our award to Sally Harbaugh, again a name 87 that some of you will know and others of you will wonder, "Who is Sally Harbaugh?" Sally 88 Harbaugh was instrumental in saving the Olmstead Parks that line Ponce de Leon, again
89 forever changing the face of the community of Druid Hills, the City of Atlanta, and DeKalb 90 County. Again, not a popular decision going against the DOT, a former President [Jimmy 91 Carter], Andrew Young—I mean all sorts of folks; but she took the courage of her actions.

92 Again in 2006 we came up with our desire—Spirit came again, and it was to honor 93 Elizabeth Wilson, again whose actions changed the face of the community forever. Judy Turner
94 and Mayor Floyd were the cochairs—honorary cochairs of this event, and Judy will take us 95 through the rest of the program. [Audience applauds as Sue Ellen Williams steps away from the 96 podium and Judy Turner takes her place.]

97 JUDY TURNER: Good afternoon. It's wonderful to see all of you here. We were kind of 98 afraid we were going to have to stack people on top of each other. So, if you're a little crowded, 99 we apologize; but it's because of the love and the thanks that we all feel for Elizabeth that so 100 many of you are here.

101 I have the privilege tonight of introducing our speakers. We've asked just a very small 102 group of people to talk about the impact that Elizabeth's actions have had on them. And the first 103 person that we're going to ask to come up is Coach Carter Wilson. [Audience applause as Ms.

104 Turner leaves the podium and Coach Wilson takes his place there.]

105 COACH CARTER WILSON: Thank you, Judy. It is indeed a pleasure to have so many 106 people who've had a hand in our raising to be here tonight to share in this wonderful occasion 107 with us. I guess you're wondering why I'm here talking on behalf of the Wilson children and not 108 my older brother. Well, I guess you all know he's long-winded, and this occasion would turn into 109 an HBO special [audience laughter] if indeed he had the opportunity to speak. So I guess, 110 being the next in line, this fell on my shoulders; and I'm glad to be able to do it.

111 Now, one of the things that I do as a basketball coach, I have the opportunity to speak all 112 over the country to different groups about offense, defense, many aspects of the game of 113 basketball. And one question that comes up invariably from young coaches is, "What does it 114 take to be successful?" And invariably we always get down to what do you believe in. [Judge 115 Hancock's guitar falls over behind the podium. As Ms. Turner and Judge Hancock come up to 116 move it, Coach Wilson holds up both hands and addresses Judge Hancock.] Excuse me, 117 Judge! [Audience laughter] What do you believe in as a coach?

118 Tonight I wanted to have the opportunity to talk about Elizabeth Wilson and some of the 119 things that she stands for. Well, as I started preparing for this, I came to the realization that I 120 would be here all night if I talked about all of the things that she stood for as a person and all of 121 the great things she's done for us, for people in the community, and for the city of Decatur at 122 large. So I won't do that. But I do think it's important that we do talk about a few of the things 123 that are special to us as her children, things that we really believe that makes her even more 124 special than she really, really is.

125 And the first thing I came up with is her ability to lead. Her leadership ability is 126 something that stands head and shoulders above anything that I've ever experienced. See, as 127 a basketball coach, one of the things that I'm charged to do is to motivate young people. So I
128 study leaders all of the time. I study social leaders: Martin Luther King, I study Gandhi. I study 129 leaders in business: John H. Johnson, Lee Iacocca, the Turners—Ted and Judy [audience 130 laughter]. Even I study basketball coaches—John Wooten. And the one thing that she 131 [Elizabeth Wilson] shares with all of them is the ability to get people to do things that they may 132 not know that they're going to do. [Audience laughter] I would venture a guess that everybody 133 in this room has done at least one thing that they weren't sure that they would do; but she called 134 and say, "You know, Carter, I need you." And you got to come. You got to come running. And 135 her leadership ability is something that stands out no matter what.

136           You know, I remember a few years ago, we were on vacation, and we were having a 137 great time. At the time, you know, we were normal people. Valerie and I, we were on vacation; 138 and she [Elizabeth Wilson] happened to be on vacation with us. Well, the conversation started 139 that morning. Valerie and I were getting up, and she said, “You know, Ms. Wilson is talking 140 about this school board thing.” I said, “Look, if you don’t want to run for the school board, don’t 141 run for the school board.” Well, later that night, after a walk on the beach, she [Valerie Wilson]
142 came back and said, “I’m putting my name in the hat.” [Audience laughter] And that’s the kind 143 of leader that she’s [Elizabeth Wilson] always been—not one that’s in your face, but the kind of 144 leader that leads quietly from behind, sort of like Nelson Mandela, getting people to lead and do 145 the things that you want them to do, but never in their faces and always with a smile. And we’re 146 certainly appreciative of that leadership ability.

147           Now, the second thing that stands out is the ability to fight. If you know her at all, you 148 know that there’s going to be a fight. As a matter of fact, the Wilson family motto is, “If you see 149 a good fight, get in it.” [Audience laughter] She’s taught us that from, you know, from library 150 days, school board days, city—all of those things. If you see a good fight, then you must get in 151 it. You know, one of the things in dealing with my team, you know, invariably we’re always 152 asking kids to do something that they may not really believe that they can do. And I always tell 153 them the story about fighting. Well, a few years ago, when I was the head basketball coach at 154 Georgia State, she asked me, “You know, I’m going to have a little procedure done at the 155 hospital. Why don’t you just pick me up and take me down, and you can pick me up later.”
156 Fine, no problem at all. Well, as I picked her up, we’re sitting there in a room waiting on the 157 doctor. The doctor comes in, and I’m thinking everything is OK. And the doctor looks around.
158 She [Elizabeth] says, “Look, that’s my son. Anything you need to say, you can say it in front of 159 him. It’s no big deal.” Well, at that moment, the doctor gave her the news that she had breast 160 cancer. Now, it was the most amazing thing that I’d ever seen in my life. The next words out of 161 her mouth were, “That just gives me one more thing to fight.” No emotions, no crying, no any of 162 that. One more thing to fight. And ever since that moment I knew in my DNA there was 163 something that says that you have to fight. You must be a fighter. Every time we have a 164 basketball game now, in the corner of my game report, we ask the kids, “Who you going to 165 represent for?” Now, I know that’s not correct English, but that’s what the kids understand.
166 “Who you going to represent for?” And every one of them will put the initials of somebody that’s 167 important to them on their sneakers. Just initials, no big deal. But that’s the person that’s going 168 to motivate you and get you to do the things that you can’t do. On my game report, every game, 169 I write the initials “E.W.” That lets me know that, hey, if it’s going to be a fight, let me get in it.

170 And I would certainly be glad to do that.

171 And one final thing that stands out to us, as her children and grandchildren, is the ability 172 to share. You know, and I know that sounds like a very simple thing. You know, I’m not talking 173 about the sharing where you’re in the sandbox and play nice and doing all of that kind of stuff.
174 I’m talking about real sharing, where you’ve got to give of your time and give of your talents.
175 That’s one of the things she’s always done. You know, growing up she was always the one 176 that’s got to go to the meeting, “I got to go see about this,” “I got to do all of these things.”

177 And our question was—and, you know, at the time we were children, and we were 178 selfish—“Why? Why do you have to be the one to go every single time?”

179 And her answer fifty years ago is the same answer that she gives right now as she’s 180 dealing with issues in the city, “You know, I need to help Ms. So-and-so with her taxes” or “Ms.
181 So-and-so’s house is not where it needs to be, and we need to give her some help.”

182 “Mom, why do you have to do that?”

183 And the answer simply is, “It needs to be done.”

184 It needs to be done. And I urge all of you—and the challenge for all of us—children, 185 people in the community, everybody—is let’s make sure that the things that need to be done, 186 that we will continue to do. Let that be her legacy. Thank you. [Audience applauds as Coach 187 Wilson leaves the podium. He and his mother hug before he returns to his seat. Ms. Turner 188 goes to the podium and speaks.]

189 MS. TURNER: Thank you, Carter. Richard [presumably Coach Wilson’s older brother] 190 couldn’t have said it better. [She and audience laugh.] We appreciate that. Our next speaker is 191 Ms. Sadie Sims, who was with Elizabeth as she decided that she wanted her children to go to 192 the same school and have the same privileges that the other children in Decatur had. Ms.
193 Sims? [Ms. Turner leaves the podium, and Ms. Sims is escorted up by her daughter Doris, last 194 name unknown.]

195 DORIS: Like Carter just said, I got a phone call about a month ago from Ms. Wilson:
196 “Doris, I need you.” [She and audience laugh.] So we’re here. And this is my mom, Sadie 197 Sims.

198 MS. SIMS: I’ve been knowing Sis [Ms. Wilson] since she come to Decatur. I’m a much 199 older person than she is. But we just—she was always a person willing to do or work with the 200 schools and the kindergarten. Her children—and I had children in kindergarten together But she 201 was always there. And when at school they was always there, because I had children along 202 with her, which—then I have children—[inaudible—could be “some” or “son”] the oldest 203 [inaudible]. But she took to me as a mother. And we always, when--anything to be done, she 204 did it. With me being an older person that I know the way. We would go to the schools or the 205 PTA, I'd always be there. And so she was always, you know, be there. She was the president 206 of the PTA and organized everything. You know, she was interested in her children. And I was, 207 too. I had older children. But she was always there. And she always looked to me as a 208 mother. And I just come to-- When our schools, well, they built the schools, but we had only 209 one school [for children of color], and they had five white schools. But we didn't have anything 210 in our school. They never did complete this school. And our children didn't have books, didn't 211 have desks, didn't have typewriters or anything in the school. And so children would always tell 212 us what they didn't have. We didn't have books. But we would— But when they built the new 213 school, we decided to— We don't have anything over here to worry about. We all go to the 214 new school.

215         And some of my friends—I have worked in the schools over—I have worked in the 216 schools, but I just know what was in the schools. But they was really-- But there wasn't nothing 217 we could do about it. But had plenty friends told me what we should have in the school. And I 218 know because I have worked in the other school. But Sis was a person that—when they told 219 them that our children could—they were building the school, and they couldn't build it unless 220 they integrated. But when they told us-- Then we had to go over there and sign up. And we got 221 four or five--six or seven mothers to say that they will sign up for their children to go to the new 222 school. Nobody showed up but Sis and me. [She and audience laugh.] And me being an older 223 person. And [inaudible] scared of, and I said, "That school was built because we don't have 224 anything." And really, I feel if they know what we have over here, they don't—they really don't 225 know. Hadn't been anybody over there to see. And me and Sis went over there, and we—they 226 called on me to tell. "Now I want to send my children to the school—to Decatur High School." I 227 told them what we didn't have at Trinity High School, and they didn't believe it. And I told them 228 to go over there to see. And they come over there surprised to see that we didn't have 229 anything. Didn't have--in the Home Ec room a old stove, one stove. Didn't have gas and 230 electric stove. Need to have a refrigerator. When they had food, they get one-- In the Home Ec 231 class they did a roast—one roast, and cooked and have it there to show [inaudible]. Put it back 232 in the refrigerator and show, you know. Like in another school I know, in the other school when 233 they have cooked the roast, they would eat it, you know, the children would eat it. [Audience 234 laughter] We just had one to show. [Audience laughter] And they couldn't believe it. And they 235 come over there and checked and seen that we didn't have anything over there, and they 236 decided that--to complete the school—that our children had—they had to integrate the school.

237 When they get it finished, our children could go.

238 But when the time come, time to go, nobody showed up but me and Sis, Carter, and my 239 three children--my three daughters. But my son didn't want to go. Didn't want to go to Decatur 240 High. But he was on the football team, and they stayed, and then we integrated. And 241 integration went on real nice. The children—of course, they are—we went to a Presbyterian 242 church, and we would have Bible school in summertime. Agnes Scott and the [Columbia] 243 seminary and Decatur churches would come out and have Bible school, and our children—the 244 white children would come over and teach our children. And we had a good relationship with 245 the children. But if it wasn't for Sis, I guess I wouldn't have went by myself. [Ms. Sims and 246 audience laugh.]

247 And so she—we integrated the library, everything else. And just all of it—she was 248 ready. And I mean, she didn't—she just did it in the nicest way. She didn't—wasn't demanding, 249 no. But we—I mean—so I know—you—let them know you was for betterment of the children.
250 Not just something just to hurt somebody. Just because you want the children to go to school.
251 But [inaudible] she did, too. And I did, too. We just wanted better for our children and let 252 them— She was always—anything we could do to better the community, the children, the 253 churches, and everything else. Anything to better the children, our children. Her children—254 mine—her children were real small. My children was teenagers. She was right there with me.
255 And she was all we had, just—just a worker for the community. And I see the reason her 256 children did so good, because she helped everybody else. [Audience applause. Ms. Sims's
257 daughter Doris takes the microphone.]

258 DORIS [last name unknown]: I'll just tell you, my mom is ninety years old; so we're very 259 proud of that. But the one thing, being one of that first group who voluntarily went to Decatur 260 after this gallant effort, that I know that in this room tonight—and I've just been smiling all this 261 evening, because anybody that's in here that was at Decatur High when it was first integrated 262 and graduated after those years and thereafter, regardless of race, ethnicity, anything else, just 263 stand up, because these are the products of that effort that happened when the schools in the 264 city of Decatur integrated. [Several people stand, to audience applause. As Ms. Sims and her
265 daughter rejoin the audience, Ms. Turner takes the podium.]

266 MS. TURNER: Thank you, Ms. Sims, for being with us tonight and for being with 267 Elizabeth and helping change history. We have another very special lady who was involved in 268 one of the significant community changes, and that's Ms. Sally Daniels [sic], who is going to talk 269 about the library. Ms. Daniels [sic]?

270 [Recording pauses while Ms. Daniel makes her way to the podium, then resumes as Ms.
271 Daniels begins to speak.]

272 MS. DANIEL: I'm deaf as a post and blind as a bat. Can you hear me all right?
273 [Audience responds with laughter; Ms. Daniel also laughs.] All right. There was something 274 called the Georgia Council on Human Relations. I don't know exactly when it started—275 sometime in the late '50s—but there was—we started a DeKalb branch of it. [Ms. Daniel is 276 erroneously identified with name superimposed onscreen in white letters as "Sallie Daniels."] 277 And I was asked to be the chair of the DeKalb Council on Human Relations. We had three 278 things that we wanted to do. One of them was to desegregate the library. Can you imagine that 279 African-American citizens could not go to the library in the '60s and before? There was 280 something called a "bookmobile" that went into the black neighborhoods. And if you wanted a 281 book, you had to be sure and get the date the bookmobile came to your neighborhood. There 282 was something that we were also going to put in—streets, paved streets and sewers in the 283 Lynwood Park area, which is near Oglethorpe University. And I don't even remember what the 284 third thing was.

285 But the important thing was the library. Well, Elizabeth and I were the ones who were 286 going to do it. Translation: Elizabeth did it. I was scared stiff [audience laughter]. I stayed out 287 in my car, ostensibly to be the runaway [getaway] if she came running out [audience laughter].
288 But, as it happened, about ten, fifteen minutes went by, and Elizabeth came out with books.
289 There wasn't a fight. It was as simple as that. But it was Elizabeth and her guts—she went to 290 the Decatur library [Maud Burrus branch] and signed on and got a library card. That was how 291 the Decatur library system was desegregated. Elizabeth did it. [Audience applause] [Recording 292 pauses while Ms. Daniel is escorted back to her seat, then resumes as Ms. Turner takes the 293 podium.]

294 MS. TURNER: Thank you, Ms. Daniels [sic]. I've heard of getaway cars in banking 295 [audience laughter], but this is the first time I've heard of getaway cars associated with the 296 library, so we're glad you were there to help out. Our next speaker is Candler Broom, who is 297 going to talk about the impact on the community that Elizabeth's actions and being here had.
298 Candler?

299 [Audience applauds as Ms. Turner turns the podium over to Candler Broom.]

300 MR. BROOM: I've got my written speech up. I asked my wife, I said, "You know, I've 301 written the speech, because Sue Ellen said I only had five minutes." I said, "So I wrote it," and I 302 said, "but I can wing it. I can talk about Elizabeth all day long."

303           And she said, “How you going to do that? You can’t even remember my name most of 304 the time. You better read it.” [Audience laughter]. So I think I will read most of it.

305           It’s a great honor to be here. I wouldn’t do this for anybody—at least here—except for 306 Elizabeth Wilson. This community has always been blessed with good leaders, even though 307 maybe in the recent history that’s slid a little bit. [Looks around pointedly as audience laughs.] I 308 can talk about my brother-in-law like that [laughs]. People who had the foresight and the 309 determination to make decisions and stick with them. I think back to those leaders who decided 310 years ago that this wasn’t the best place for a train terminal and had to make a decision and 311 sent it down the road to Marthasville [Atlanta] a little ways. I think that was a great decision. I 312 would love to have been in on some of those meetings to hear the conversations that went on.
313 People like Scott Candler, county commission chairman that created a state-of-the-art 314 infrastructure that set DeKalb County years ahead of the rest of the state. [Gestures toward 315 Scotty Candler in the audience.] His grandson is here today, Scotty. City leaders like Roy 316 Blount, Sr., who fought and scrapped to bring MARTA to the city of Decatur. Some people may 317 not agree with that now, but I think it a very important happening. City leaders like Eloise
318 Leverett, Bill Breen, Jack Hamilton, Bob Carpenter, who stayed the course in the ’60s and ’70s 319 as people and businesses were flying to the suburbs.

320           Decatur in the early ’60s was typical of most small towns in the South. We had the town 321 square, we had the courthouse in the middle, we had the local hangouts—for most of us, across 322 the street Tatum’s Pharmacy. Everybody went—all the guys went to Tatum’s Pharmacy. The 323 girls would drive by to see who was there, and then they would duck as they got by Tatum’s so 324 they wouldn’t be seen. Also most cities in the South at that time had the local school system. In 325 fact, they had two local school systems. One school system was white; one school system was 326 black. I think the catch-phrase used was “separate but equal.” Reasonable, intelligent people 327 understood the inaccuracy of that statement. But to preserve the status quo, heads were firmly 328 implanted in the sand. Time again for leadership to step forward in our community; and as it 329 had in the past, it did.

330           A little lady who had migrated from Greensboro, Georgia, to Decatur in 1949 rose to the 331 challenge. Her name, of course, Elizabeth Wilson. You’ve heard the term, “Walk softly but carry 332 a big stick.” Who said that? [Several people respond inaudibly from audience.] I don’t know 333 anyone who exemplifies that description more than Elizabeth. A devotee of Dr. Martin Luther 334 King, Jr., who profoundly influenced her, Elizabeth took up the cause to integrate the Decatur 335 city schools. The year was 1962. Elizabeth did walk softly, and she did use her big stick. She 336 used it very politely, however. While rocks, sticks, and hate were hurled in cities all over this

337 country, it never happened in Decatur. In our city Elizabeth went about her job with quiet 338 determination. That period covered a period of about two years.

339         There were many significant events during that time, too many to mention in my five 340 minutes. One most significant event was her first meeting with then-school superintendent, Dr.
341 Carl Renfroe. It lasted all day. Dr. Renfroe presented the reasons integration could not 342 happen. A lot of that had to do—and I was surprised—with state law at the time. As we know, 343 and as those of us who know Dr. Renfroe, I would have loved to be in the meeting. Because I 344 can assure you that Dr. Renfroe did most of the talking, [audience laughter] and Elizabeth did 345 most of the listening. But I can also assure you that, knowing Elizabeth, that when she left that 346 room that afternoon, it had no effect on her or her cause whatsoever.

347         Over the next two years Elizabeth kept up a steady course. She was promised several 348 concessions over the next few years, none of which were actually granted. She stepped on a 349 lot of toes during that period, but she did it very softly. Two years after that initial meeting 350 Elizabeth went to an open house in the new high school that had just been constructed. She 351 went to an open house in a school that her children probably would not have the opportunity to 352 attend. It was at this open house that Dr. Renfroe finally approached Elizabeth and basically 353 said, “OK, Elizabeth, it’s time.” That was 1964; and in the fall of 1964 twenty-four African-354 American students enrolled in the Decatur city schools. I asked Elizabeth what finally happened 355 to initiate the integration. Her response was, “The city leaders like Robin Harris, Davison 356 Phillips, Carl Renfroe, and many, many others stepped forward to do what was right.” She did 357 what most great leaders do. She gave the credit to somebody else. No rocks, no sticks, no 358 blood—a peaceful, orderly integration of the Decatur city schools, led by the little lady who 359 walked softly but carried a big stick.

360         One aside to show you what respect Elizabeth gained through that process happened a 361 few years later. I was serving on the Decatur City Commission. And I got a call from Mr. Robin 362 Harris. And when Mr. Harris called, I went to see him. Robin was one of those leaders I 363 mentioned earlier, a rock of this community, and certainly one that we lost much too early. He 364 said, “Candler, this commission needs black representation, and that black representation 365 needs to be Elizabeth Wilson.” He said, “You and the city commission need to get behind 366 Elizabeth and help her in her election bid.” This was not a token action; this was what was right.
367 And this is what the leaders at that time in our city knew was the right thing to do. I served on 368 the city commission with Elizabeth for six or seven years, and I can certainly tell you that Mr.
369 Robin Harris was right on. Elizabeth was the right person.

370 Real leaders don't sit on their laurels. Elizabeth continues to be active and involved, and 371 I know that she will as long as she's able. She certainly fits into that category of those leaders 372 that I have discussed tonight. Elizabeth, we love you, and we thank you. [Audience applauds 373 as Mr. Broom leaves the podium and pauses to hug Ms. Wilson. Both return to their seats, and 374 Sue Ellen Williams takes the podium. "Sue Ellen O. Williams reading comments from Michael 375 Mears" appears superimposed over the screen.]

376 MS. WILLIAMS: Mike [Mears, her former husband] actually asked me to make these 377 remarks. And, Elizabeth, for you, I'm going to make them. [Audience laughter] [Ms. Williams
378 reads Mr. Mears's prepared speech]:

379 I first met Elizabeth Wilson when she was organizing a healthcare clinic for the Decatur 380 housing project. I was teaching at Decatur High School, and Dr. Carl Renfro sent me to a 381 public meeting where issues about the Decatur school system were being discussed. Elizabeth 382 was one of the participants in that discussion. [Camera moves its focus on Elizabeth Wilson in 383 the audience.] This was in the very early 1970s, and I was so impressed with her obvious 384 dedication and concern not only for the city of Decatur but also for the people of Decatur. She 385 was a calming influence during a rather troubling and turbulent time in Decatur. The Decatur 386 school system had only recently gone through the process of integrating Decatur High School, 387 and there was much concern in the community about where Decatur was heading at that time.
388 Elizabeth was one of those individuals who maintained her dignity and poise through many 389 public meetings.

390 Over the years since that first meeting Elizabeth and I got to know each other better; and 391 I got to know one of her sons, Carter, and her daughters. Elizabeth as a single mother has 392 done a remarkable job in instilling her values in her children. This is perhaps the greatest gift 393 she could have given. I have always respected Elizabeth the mother even more than Elizabeth 394 the community organizer, more than Elizabeth the commissioner, and Elizabeth the mayor.
395 After I became mayor of Decatur, I received a call from Elizabeth, asking me to go to lunch with 396 her. And I would add, as an aside, Mike also got that phone call from Robin Harris. We went to 397 the Decatur Executive Club in the Decatur Federal Building. I remember that lunch so very well.
398 We sat at the table next to the windows, looking out over Decatur's skyline. Elizabeth told me 399 she was thinking of running for the Decatur City Commission, and what did I think about that. I 400 was overjoyed that she would consider running for the Decatur City Commission, and I 401 promised her my support. As we all know, Elizabeth won that election and many reelections 402 afterward.

403           While I was mayor, and Elizabeth was serving as mayor pro tem, she and I went to 404 Africa to visit with Decatur's sister cities in Burkina Faso. I was so glad to be a part of 405 Elizabeth's first trip to Africa [Camera moves back to wider shot of Ms. Williams at the podium 406 and the first few tables, including Ms. Wilson's, in the audience.] and so appreciative of the 407 opportunity to see her touch the soil of her ancestors' continent. It was so evident that Elizabeth 408 was returning to a place where her soul had once touched the land and the people. Watching 409 Elizabeth visit with our friends in Burkina Faso was another of the many gifts she has given me 410 over the years.

411           When I decided that I was no longer going to remain on the Decatur City Commission, 412 Elizabeth and I discussed my exit from the role of mayor. I assumed that if I stayed on the 413 commission until the end of my term, there would be some question as to who would be elected 414 as mayor after the first of the year. I felt that Elizabeth deserved to be the mayor; and as the 415 mayor pro tem, she would automatically be named mayor for the remainder of my term in office.
416 So I resigned my position on the commission in November, and Elizabeth was named the first 417 African-American mayor of the city of Decatur, Georgia.

418           Elizabeth Wilson exemplifies the very best that any community can offer to itself. She is 419 the light which every community needs illuminating its pathways and the star which every 420 community needs to have as its guide. She is also the friend everyone should have at least 421 once in their lifetime. Congratulations to my friend, Elizabeth Wilson. Mike Mears. [Audience 422 applauds as Ms. Williams briefly leaves the podium to give Ms. Wilson a hug, then returns to 423 address the audience.]

424           Judy [Turner] got to throw me a curve, so I'm going to throw her one. Nibs [Gibson 425 Stroupe] is here. Nibs is the pastor at Oakhurst Presbyterian Church, and I just told him I have 426 got to give the invocation; but I'm going to let him come up and say a few remarks, because he 427 was going to have an opportunity. As many of you know, Elizabeth Andrews's husband was 428 killed; and the service for him was at Oakhurst Presbyterian this afternoon. So Nibs has been 429 doing double duty, but I know he's got something wonderful to say. [Audience applauds as Ms.
430 Williams leaves the podium and Reverend Stroupe takes his place there.]

431           REV. STROUPE: Thank you, Elizabeth [sic]. Sue Ellen asked me if I wanted to speak.
432 And I said I was a preacher, so obviously I want to speak. [Scattered audience laughter] She 433 told me to be very brief; so that's tough for a preacher, but I'll try. I know you've said a lot of 434 wonderful things about Elizabeth. I want to add a couple. She and Ethel Steverson were 435 among five people who were on the Pulpit Nominating Committee who called me to be pastor of 436 Oakhurst Presbyterian Church twenty-three years ago. Elizabeth and Ethel were the black folk 437 on the committee, and there were three white folk on the committee. Within two years all the 438 white folk had left the church, and Elizabeth and Ethel are still there. So I give thanks for that, 439 and thanks for your support.

440 I first got to know Elizabeth as a part of the board of the Community Health Center—of 441 Oakhurst Community Health Center, which was one of her loves and I assume people have 442 talked about tonight. And we give thanks for her leadership of that. And as I ended up chairing 443 that board for a couple of years—and Elizabeth was a street warrior with the federal 444 government. We often had to wrestle for funds from the federal government, trying to convince 445 them that this [sic] was a lot cheaper to give healthcare this way and trying to convince them to 446 expand that model, that if we used the model of the community health centers for everybody, it 447 would still be a lot cheaper. We're still trying to figure that out in our society. I don't know where 448 we're going to end up, but I can go on—I'll stop there.

449 But Elizabeth was a powerful enabler of those of us who would come together. She 450 would get people who were from all walks of life, and we've heard that said. She could talk to 451 powerful people; she could talk to people on the street. And so we give thanks for that ability. I 452 often wondered how Elizabeth would—could do it, as she had to switch from being a street 453 warrior to being a politician. Often, if you're a street warrior, it doesn't go well when you get into 454 politics. But she demonstrated a remarkable capacity to shift her understanding and her 455 approach to people and, as we've heard, the sense that she walked softly and carried a big 456 stick. And she has had great influence on people and a great ability to say to everybody, 457 whether you have a college degree or not, whether you have an education or not, "You're 458 somebody. And you belong to the God that we claim as the center of our lives, no matter what 459 you call that God." She had that ability to instill in people that you are important; you are 460 somebody. And so we give thanks for that.

461 Elizabeth is one of the leaders that we've had. Now, we need that leadership again in 462 Decatur. We've got black folk leaving Decatur as quickly as the white folk left Oakhurst when 463 black folk came in. So we've got a lot of work to do. Elizabeth's still part of that work, and we 464 give thanks for her leadership on that. She's been a great church member, a great leader in this 465 community. But most of all she's had the ability, which we all need, and that is to say we need 466 all of us to be part of the community—not just a certain kind of folk, not just the kind of folk we 467 think will make good citizens, but all of us. If we're going to survive, we're going to have to be 468 welcomed in the doors of many places. Elizabeth has done that better than anyone, and I thank 469 her. [Applause for Rev. Stroupe as he leaves the podium and hugs Ms. Wilson on his way back 470 to his seat in the audience.]

471           [Ms. Williams takes the podium, with Bill Floyd and Judy Turner standing to the side.]

472           MS. WILLIAMS: Elizabeth, you want to come up here? Not really, but you will. [Ms.
473 Wilson takes her place beside Ms. Williams.] OK. Wow. [To audience] I know that you've 474 sensed the words that you've heard over and over: gentle and kind and open and 475 understanding, but a warrior at the same time. And all these characteristics are what make 476 Elizabeth who she was during that time and who she is today. There are a lot of people whose 477 actions like this alienate folks. And one of the reasons we thought this History-Maker Award 478 was so appropriate for Elizabeth was the ability to make those changes and still have everybody 479 like her. [Scattered audience laughter] That's pretty remarkable. OK, we have a few things we 480 want to do. [Retrieves a plaque from a box nearby.] Everybody loves the "things." First of all, 481 we're going to give you this little plaque to put on your wall. And it says, "The DeKalb History 482 Center History-Maker Award presented to Elizabeth Wilson for courageous actions which 483 brought equality, justice, and fairness to a community and its people and changed us for all 484 time. March 12, 2006." [Audience applauds as Ms. Williams presents the plaque to Ms.
485 Wilson.] [Mr. Floyd joins Ms. Wilson and Ms. Williams at the podium.]

486           MS. WILSON: That is nice!

487           MR. FLOYD: We're not through yet. [Audience continues applause and rises in 488 standing ovation. After audience is seated, Mr. Floyd continues.] We do have another honor for 489 Elizabeth. Most of you remember some years ago we dedicated a bronze on the Square to 490 Elizabeth, which was a very eventful day, and I remember quite well. And one of the things 491 Elizabeth said after we had made that bronze presentation in her honor—and we haven't thrown 492 it away, Elizabeth. It's just being temporarily stored over there. [Audience laughter. Ms. Wilson
493 laughs and says, "All right."] One of the things she said that day, "You made an ordinary person 494 feel very special." Well, I can tell you Elizabeth Wilson is anything but ordinary.

495           And I grew up in south Alabama in the '50s—segregated south Alabama. I can 496 remember where the black people only came downtown on— [Pauses as eyes well up with 497 tears. To Ms. Wilson:] I'm trying, Elizabeth. [Ms. Wilson puts her arm around Mr. Floyd's
498 waist.] --downtown on Saturday afternoon. And I can remember in my college days driving 499 over to Montgomery, Alabama, and watching the marchers from Selma in the street. We went 500 up in the state office building and looked down on them. And I can tell you, Elizabeth has 501 changed this world. She's changed this country. She's changed this state. She's changed this 502 city. But more importantly to me, she changed me. [Voice breaks as he chokes back tears.]
503 And I thank you for that, Elizabeth.

504           MS. WILSON: Thank you.

505           [They hug each other as audience applauds.]

506           MR. FLOYD: The first vote I cast as Decatur city commissioner was for Elizabeth as 507 mayor pro tem. [Ms. Wilson and audience laugh. Audience applauds.] The first meaningful 508 vote I ever cast was for Elizabeth as mayor. [Ms. Wilson and audience laugh.] And I would 509 argue with [former Decatur mayor] Mike [Mears], because I don't remember their being any 510 question about that at all as to who was going to take over when he left.

511           But we have one more honor that we tried to come up with, something that we thought 512 might be appropriate for Elizabeth. And so, because—for Elizabeth tonight—because of the 513 generosity of these people in this room, we're proud to announce the Mary Elizabeth Brown 514 Wilson Scholarship, which will be administered by the Decatur Education Foundation, in the 515 amount of $10,000. [Audience and a beaming Ms. Wilson applaud. Audience stands. Ms.
516 Turner holds up a large poster-size check representing the scholarship.] The amount will be 517 awarded to a graduating senior from Decatur High School. And Sherry Breunig, would you 518 mind coming up and accepting this on behalf of the Decatur Education— [Voice trails off.] And 519 Gayle Gellerstedt—is Gayle here? Yeah, Gayle. [Ms. Breunig and Ms. Gellerstedt go up to 520 podium to accept award on behalf of the Decatur Education Foundation.] It will be presented to 521 a graduating senior from Decatur High School who has been accepted to an accredited college, 522 university, or technical school to pursue an undergraduate degree and who demonstrates the 523 following characteristics: a history of involvement in meaningful community service that 524 enhances the lives of others, academic attainment that reflects a commitment to education and 525 a potential for success in a chosen field of study as demonstrated by a GPA of 2.5 or higher, 526 and resilience in overcoming adversity to achieve educational goals and career objectives.
527 Congratulations, Elizabeth. [Audience applauds as Ms. Gellerstedt and Ms. Breunig hold up
528 facsimile of check.] [Ms. Turner takes the podium.]

529           MS. TURNER: There are a couple of things Bill didn't tell you. First of all this was his 530 idea to establish this scholarship for Elizabeth, and I think that's very fitting. The other thing is 531 that the $10,000 is only the beginning. We have already collected enough that we know we can 532 do ten [thousand]. But once we get everything from tonight settled, we feel like there will be 533 more. So we thank each of you who have contributed to this and each of you who are here 534 tonight.

535           We have one other person who wants to make a special presentation to Elizabeth, and 536 then we'll let her talk just a little bit [Laughs]. Eric Willis, would you please come up? To me the 537 exciting thing about this is how many people have seen how much Elizabeth has done for other

538 people all through the years, and they're wanting to do something for her. And Eric is one who 539 came forward and said, "Can I please do this?" So Eric? [Mr. Willis takes the podium.]

540 MR. WILLIS: Superimposed over Mr. Willis's image onscreen is, "Eric Willis, Owner, 541 Sonz Fitness Center"] Good afternoon. I don't know Elizabeth as well as a lot of people that 542 are here. When I met her, I just thought she was an average person. Now I'm kind of like 543 blown away. [Mr. Willis and audience laugh.] You know—you know, when she came in [to 544 Sonz], she was telling me that she was having some problems out of her knees. She wanted to 545 get her knees strong. And I was like, "I can help you with that." It's the same thing I tell 546 everybody, because I believe I can help anybody with anything. And we started to working.
547 Probably one of the things that I appreciate the most was she allowed me to help her. A lot of 548 people are a little timid because they don't trust the trainer. They think that the trainer's going to 549 hurt them because of so many bad experiences and things of that nature. But she allowed me 550 to help her. And whatever I asked her to do, I mean, she did. And some of the stuff, I didn't 551 think she'd be able to do, but she blowed me away. Her strength and her confidence is just 552 unparalleled with anybody I think I've ever trained, so I enjoy training her. And then we got to a 553 point where, you know, she used up all her training sessions. And I wanted her to continue to 554 work out, so I said, well, I have to do something so she can come back and work out. So 555 tonight I want to present her with enough training sessions to last her for a long, long, long, long 556 time. [Audience laughter, followed by applause] [Ms. Wilson goes up to podium, hugs Mr.
557 Willis, and accepts an envelope from him.]

558 MS. WILSON, laughing: Oh, my gosh. This is great. Thank you. [Audience applauds 559 as Mr. Willis returns to his seat in audience, and Ms. Turner approaches Ms. Wilson to let her 560 know that it's her turn to speak. Ms. Wilson is still laughing and is visibly moved by the 561 preceding presentations.] There are few times when I don't know what to say. [Takes a deep 562 breath and exhales audibly.] And I know that this group over here at this table [in front, where 563 she has been sitting] that's going to tell me in a minute that I should be brief. I do want to say 564 thank you for coming. I am totally blown away with all of you. Thank you! [Audience gives 565 standing ovation.]

566 I do want to take just a minute to recognize just a few people who are just—everybody in 567 this room is special to me. Everybody. But there are a few people that I just want you to know 568 that's here this evening. The young lady [Sally Daniel] who was part of the visit to Decatur 569 library system way back in the early '60s—and she was quiet. I thought I was quiet, but I realize 570 that she's much quieter than I was. And I do have to tell you this, that back in those days I think 571 everybody probably had a plan. And they knew that if something happened that, you know,

572 there would be somebody there, you know, like a big group or somebody. I don't think I and 573 Sally and the other person who was there that morning--was a lady named Emily [Hesitates 574 over last name.] Brinkley?—we didn't really have much of a plan. And Sally is probably right: if 575 we had probably came out of the door with handcuffs on, Sally probably would have left us in 576 the [inaudible—sounds like “steps,” could be “stacks”?]. [Audience and Ms. Wilson laugh.] But 577 the other person who was with me when we went in to check the first books out of the library 578 was Ms. Dorothy Scott. So Dorothy, please stand up and let everybody see you. [Ms. Scott 579 stands to applause.]

580 And, of course, I just need to share one little joke about when Ms. Sims and I went to the 581 high school. Dr. Renfroe, you know, did—he talked a lot. [Audience laughter] I mean, he did 582 talk a lot. And we listened; but when he kept insisting that he could not do what we wanted him 583 to do, we kept—Sadie and I kept—insisting that we were not going anywhere. And we stayed 584 there all day. And it was amazing, [Ms. Wilson and audience laugh.] because it was--again, we 585 didn't have a plan. We just knew that it was time to do it. Right, Sadie? And so we did. And 586 the results of that little effort that we also didn't have cameras and, you know, demonstrations 587 and none of that, it was just us. And thank you, Sadie, and thank you, Dorothy Bell; because I 588 did not do this by myself. It was with the help of you.

589 And then I'd like for you to meet my family. And I'll do this quickly, because they're 590 going to tell me to sit down and shut up. But all the kids are here with the grandkids. So 591 Richard, Carter, Leslie, Nicholas, Devon [spelling?], Kristin [spelling?], Annette, Keith, Valerie—592 could y'all just stand up? [They stand to audience applause.]

593 Ms.--the Sims [sic] are certainly—I wanted to be part of their family, but I could never 594 figure out how to become part of them. I tried to play matchmaker, and that didn't work out, you 595 know? [Audience laughter] And so Sadie is—I mean, she is just a wonderful person, and she's 596 always in my life. And the same thing with Dorothy Bell. And I know that I'm the only adult in 597 the whole world that still call her son “Bunny.” [Audience laughter] The kids grew up together, 598 and we were a family. And we are family. And so thank you.

599 And then my friend who comes from Columbus, Georgia, every time there's something 600 for me; she's always here for me. And we've been friends since she taught Richard 601 kindergarten way back in those early years. So Ruth Weldon is here. [Ms. Weldon stands to 602 applause.] And Sally and Lynn, thank you so much for coming, OK? And Sally Daniels [sic]
603 has been a part of my life for League of Women Voters, Georgia Council on Human Relations, 604 and all of the other things that made a difference in this community. And Lynn and I, we're 605 League [of Women Voters] members and have been for years. So thank you. This is very, 606 very, very special for me today.

607 Now, I don't have anything else to say, other than I have—I think it's some high school 608 students here. I would like for them to stand up. Where are the high school students? [Several 609 students stand throughout the room as audience applauds.] Decatur High School. The reason I 610 would like for them to stand up, a few weeks ago I was asked to come speak to that group of 611 students, and I just said to them, right off the bat, "Do you know who I am?" Like I've got some 612 kind of status or something, you know. [Audience laughter] And they didn't. But, you know, 613 everybody knows Coach Wilson. So I didn't tell them at the time that I was Carter's mother. So 614 as I presented to them about the library and the school and themselves focusing on something 615 and never giving up, you know, decide what it is you want to do and do that. And then I said 616 something to the effect that, "And if you have any questions, you might ask Coach Wilson." And 617 one of the guys in the class said, "See that man? I told you that was Coach Wilson's mother."
618 [Audience laughter] So I invited them to come this evening because, you know, we didn't make 619 the news, and we have not been in the media—none of that. We just wanted to do what we 620 knew was the best thing to do, not for our children but for all kids. And so as we use all of the 621 facilities in DeKalb County and the library system, in the high school and the elementary school, 622 it's for all of the kids. And that's what we wanted to see. And that's what we enjoy doing now.
623 So thank you, high school students, for coming and being a part of this celebration this 624 afternoon.

625 Thank you, committee—Sue Ellen, Judy, the rest of the committee. Thank you so much.
626 You've done a wonderful job. And thanks to all of you for coming. You have made me very, 627 very happy. [Ms. Wilson leaves the podium to standing ovation. Ms. Turner takes the podium.]

628 MS. TURNER: In closing tonight, again, I'd like to thank each of you for coming. And I 629 would like to recognize the committee. You've seen three of us up here—Mayor [Bill] Floyd, 630 Sue Ellen [Williams]—but also Juanchella Grooms has worked with us; Beth Johnson [spelling?
631 Sounds like "Yonsson"?]—where is Beth? Beth's in the back of the room--she works with the 632 History Center; and Peggy Merriss. And we thank all of y'all for being part of this today.

633 The books on the table were furnished today by the DeKalb Library System, but these 634 are all books who have—which have a special meaning to Elizabeth. They're gardening, 635 quilting, cooking, African-American history, and civil rights. So these books were chosen 636 because of the things that have been so important to her through the years. Again, please don't 637 take them, because Juanchella [audience laughter cuts off the rest of her sentence]. My 638 daughter says she doesn't check books out of the library because they always want them back, 639 and the DeKalb Library does want their books back tonight; so please leave those on the table.

640 I'd also like to thank the History Center, Sue Ellen and her staff, for sponsoring this event 641 tonight. The History Center is a very important part of Decatur and DeKalb County. This is the 642 group that is responsible for making sure that we're aware of historic events in the community.
643 So we ask that you support them as well as supporting this wonderful event tonight.

644 We've got one last treat for you. Of all the people here who have said, "I wouldn't do this 645 for anybody but Elizabeth," Judge Mike Hancock is no exception. He is absolutely wonderful, 646 and he means a lot to Elizabeth. And having Mike here tonight has been a real treat for all of 647 us. So Mike we thank you, and he is going to close it with the Lord's Prayer. So would you 648 please stand. [Audience stands as Judge Hancock takes the podium.]

649 JUDGE HANCOCK: It is interesting that today the International Sunday School Lesson 650 was about the model prayer. And, if you would, please join me in bowing our heads as we go to 651 the Throne of Grace in song. [Judge Hancock sings "The Lord's Prayer."] [Audience applause.]

652 [Recording ends with a photograph of Elizabeth Wilson.]
