Over the years, the neighborhood has gone through many changes but has always retained a strong community spirit. Today, Belvedere Park is home to many long-time residents as well as new neighbors who are all working together to build a stronger and healthier community for all its residents.

Belvedere Park has recently become one of Atlanta's hot new real estate markets. This rapidly transitioning neighborhood is all about location. This unincorporated neighborhood is becoming a new haven for young professionals and families that work intown. The large trees and pocket parks only add to the neighborhoods appeal. There are also plans for the [PATH][1] to run parallel to Shoal Creek and connect the neighborhood to downtown Decatur, Stone Mountain, and Arabia Mountain. The future is bright for Belvedere Park!

Recent Photos of Midway Ball Park 2000:

<http://www.karendean.net/thsnowandthenphotos/page12.html>

Midway Park is located on a quiet residential neighborhood stretch on Midway Road, probably less than a mile from the old Columbia Mall (now called Avondale Mall) located at the corner of Midway Road and Memorial Drive. Midway Park basically consists of numerous ball fields used for playing baseball and football and it also has a public swimming pool, located adjacent to the ball fields. Boys and girls as far back as the 1960s have been swimming, playing baseball or football, or cheering for the teams. Often fathers were the coaches for the ball teams. At one point in time, Belvedere and the surrounding neighborhoods were considered the "hot spot" to live in town. Most families were white and middle class and frequently life was encompassed with participating in Midway team sports for the entire family. Midway Ball Park became a popular teenage hangout during the ball season during the 1970s and many fond memories took place in this park. Somewhere around the 1990s, the pool shut down, but later reopened in 2000 and has remained opened. The actual ball park has seen many improvements over the years.... new fencing, new new bleachers, new lights, etc.
